Finishes

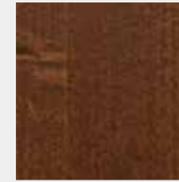

Superior Cabinets offers a number of wood, paint and hand-crafted artistic finishes. Elegant and durable, our finishes are formulated for use in the cabinetry and furniture industry. Please note printing does not allow for accurate colour reproduction. Please see an actual colour sample before placing your order.

Alder

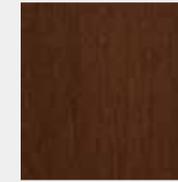

Alder is a relatively soft hardwood of medium density and has a warm, natural tone of honey to reddish brown. The even texture has occasional pin knots and has a similar grain pattern to Cherry and Maple.

Black Walnut

Cherry

Cherry is chosen for high-end furniture and cabinetry. Colour ranges from natural warm honey to reddish-brown, which darken considerably with light exposure. Due to growing patterns of Cherry, there may be mineral streaks, pin knots and gum pockets that create unique markings on the wood. Lighter sapwood may be present in Cherry which will not darken to the extent of normal Cherry wood.

Cherry Natural

Cherry Bordeaux

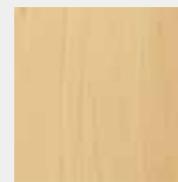

Cherry Malbec

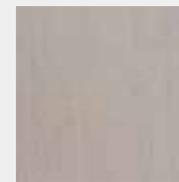

Cherry Nightcap

Hickory

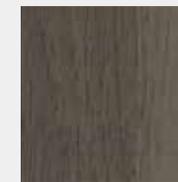

Hickory is a hard, heavy wood with distinct and extremely dramatic colour variations in its grain due to the combination of sapwood and heartwood. These variations in colour are a trademark of hickory. Veneer panels and finished sides, as well as book matching on panels, may appear striped due to grain variations.

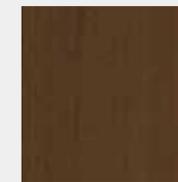

Hickory Natural

Hickory Flaxseed

Hickory Chestnut

Oak

Oak is a relatively hard, dense wood with a high resistance to wear. A porous wood with a more open grain, Oak stained with light colours will show the wood and grain variation to a greater degree than with dark stain colours. However, the texture of Oak will be apparent even with dark finishes, due to the porous nature of the wood. Northern Red Oak is used in our Oak cabinetry.

MDF Handcrafted

Medium-Density Fiberboard (MDF) is an engineered wood product made using hardwood or softwood residuals. Our MDF meets the formaldehyde emission levels of the California Air Resource Board (CARB), less than .09ppm, ensuring healthier air quality. MDF is generally denser than plywood, used for painted doors and has a high resistance to wear. MDF is great for environments with low humidity and dramatic seasonal changes, as cracking at door joints due to seasonal changes will not occur, unlike painted wood doors which crack at the joints.
