Important Notes

1. The nomination will not confer any rights or benefits on the Beneficiaries until the date of your death before the maturity date.
2. The nomination may be revoked by you in writing before your death but such revocation will only be valid provided it is received by the Company before the Transfer Date.
3. The maturity or earlier termination of the contract before your death will revoke any nomination made in respect of the contract.
4. On the Transfer Date the legal and beneficial interest in the contract will be assigned to the beneficiaries as stated above.
5. The Company is under no obligation to determine whether the law governing the distribution of property belonging to you restricts or prohibits a nomination and the discharge referred to in 6. below will apply regardless of any such restriction or prohibition.
6. The payment of any benefit or other transaction under the contract effected on or after the Transfer Date at the request of or on the behalf of the Beneficiaries will discharge the Company from all liabilities and claims in respect of the payment or other transaction.

7. Notification by you to the Company of any assignment or charge granting a person a right or interest of any kind in the contract before the Transfer Date will revoke the nomination.

8. The Company will not be liable or be held accountable in any way to the Beneficiaries for any benefit paid or transactions effected under the contract before the Transfer Date.

9. You can split the benefit payable under the contract between several beneficiaries by inserting a percentage in the box headed “share of total benefit”. For example, beneficiary A - 50%, beneficiary B - 30%, beneficiary C - 20% (total 100%). If no percentages are entered the benefit will be split into equal shares.

10. The contract Terms and Conditions will not be affected by the transfer of ownership of the contract to the Beneficiaries.

11. By signing this form providing information about the persons you are appointing as your beneficiaries, we will treat this as confirmation that these persons consent to the processing of their personal data by us. This means that you have informed them of our identity and the purpose for which their information will be used; namely to contact them in the event of the death of the contract holder (or death of the last to die in the case of joint contract holders).
