EASE statement of endorsement of ORCID

The European Association of Science Editors (EASE) supports all initiatives that increase the transparency and disambiguation of authorship so that authors can receive appropriate credit for their work. We therefore fully support and endorse the activities of ORCID (Open Researcher & Contributor ID: <https://orcid.org>) to provide a mechanism for identifying and associating authors with their research publications and related activities.

We strongly encourage our members to register and use ORCID for their works and to encourage authors and reviewers with whom they work to do likewise. We encourage the application and publication of ORCID for all authors (not just the corresponding author) to ensure that complete ORCID profiles are built by everyone.

We strongly encourage publishers to implement systems that facilitate the recognition of ORCID for all authors and reviewers, so that each can receive suitable recognition of their input. Several publishers have signed an open letter to confirm that they require authors to sign up and register their ORCID with their submissions: read the open letter here: <https://orcid.org/content/requiring-orcid-publication-workflows-open-letter>.

About EASE: The European Association of Science Editors (EASE) is an international community of editors from diverse backgrounds, linguistic traditions and professional experience who share an interest in science communication and editing. We welcome members from every corner of the world and have membership in every continent.

EASE Mission: To improve the global standard and quality of science editing by promoting the value of science editors and supporting professional development, research and collaboration.

EASE Motto: EASE – Excellence and Accountability in Science Editing

About ORCID: ORCID is a nonprofit organization helping create a world in which all who participate in research, scholarship and innovation are uniquely identified and connected to their contributions and affiliations, across disciplines, borders, and time.

ORCID mission: ORCID is part of the wider digital infrastructure needed for researchers to share information on a global scale. We enable transparent and trustworthy connections between researchers, their contributions, and affiliations by providing an identifier for individuals to use with their name as they engage in research, scholarship, and innovation activities.
