Licensing Terms and Information

1. Terms of Use

All use of SQLyog Professional / Enterprise / Ultimate is subject to the terms of the applicable license agreements, provided with the software (which may be viewed at webyog.com/legal), and to the Licensing Information about Webyog Software Products, provided herein.

2. SQLyog Professional / Enterprise / Ultimate Multi-User License

A multi-user license for SQLyog Professional / Enterprise / Ultimate, licensed from Webyog, is for the English-language version of SQLyog Professional / Enterprise / Ultimate only. The license permits you to distribute the specified number of licensed copies of SQLyog Professional / Enterprise / Ultimate entirely within your organization, solely for use by your employees / consultants. The software may be used by your employees / consultants worldwide. You may not give, transfer or sell multi-user-licensed copies of SQLyog Professional / Enterprise / Ultimate to your customer(s), or any third party, nor include such copies in, or with, products you sell.

The multi-user license is licensed on a per-user basis. Subject to the number of copies licensed by your organization, users may access the software in any way that is convenient; for example, by accessing copies stored on local hard disks or copies stored on network servers. The license is not a concurrent-use license.

At the time of purchase, or upon acceptance of the purchase order by Webyog, the designated End-User will receive an email confirmation that will include links and instructions for downloading the software and registering the SQLyog Professional / Enterprise / Ultimate license.

3. Distribution of the Software

The SQLyog Professional / Enterprise/Ultimate multi-user software will be distributed by electronic means to the name and email address of the End-User that was designated by the customer on the order form or purchase order. At the time of purchase, or upon acceptance of the purchase order by Webyog, the designated End-User will receive an email confirmation that will include links and instructions for downloading the software and registering the SQLyog Professional / Enterprise / Ultimate Unlimited license.

4. SQLyog Professional / Enterprise / Ultimate Unlimited Software License Administrator

A SQLyog Professional / Enterprise / Ultimate software multi-user license must be centrally administered within your organization, which means that there needs to be one employee within your organization who acts as the license administrator and is the Webyog point of contact for your organization. Your license administrator is responsible for duplicating and distributing the SQLyog Professional / Enterprise / Ultimate software and upgrades to the employees covered under the license, for adding on to the size of the license when necessary, and for monitoring the number of copies licensed by the organization.

5. Adding Licensed Copies to an Existing SQLyog Professional / Enterprise / Ultimate Software License

SQLyog Professional/Enterprise/Ultimate software pricing is not cumulative. The price for the additional licensed copies is based on Webyog's standard price at the time of purchase.
