OVERVIEW

William Penn (14 October 1644 – 30 July 1718) was the son of Sir William Penn, and was an English real estate entrepreneur, philosopher, early Quaker, and founder of the State of Pennsylvania, the English North American colony and the future Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. He was an early advocate of democracy and religious freedom, notable for his good relations and successful treaties with the Lenape Native Americans. Under his direction, the city of Philadelphia was planned and developed. In 1681, King Charles II handed over a large piece of his American land holdings to Penn to appease the debts the king owed to Penn's father. This land included present-day Pennsylvania and Delaware.

Healing Tree International is currently in the works for creating a docudrama based on William Penn's life and his book entitled, "No Cross-No Crown" which outlined Penn's views of governing men. In it Penn writes, "If thou wouldst rule well, thou must rule for God, and to do that, thou must be ruled by him.... Those who will not be governed by God will be ruled by tyrants."

The feature length docudrama film or documentary hybrid – with a current working title of "PENN" – will be a motion picture project that combines both documentary and narrative film elements in exploring the life and supernatural revelatory visions of William Penn for defining and developing "Government" for Pennsylvania – what Penn called the "Holy Experiment" – as a model not just for the future United States, but for democracies throughout the world and throughout the reaches of time.

The film will follow William Penn's life from his childhood years living under the shadow of his father – a well-respected Admiral loyal to the British crown – to Penn as a young adult experiencing Quaker teachings before becoming an outspoken Quaker leader himself. As Penn marries and writes the books that will become timeless classics (such as "No Cross, No Crown," "Fruits of Solitude," etc.), the film will follow his intricate, Spirit-led journey from those beginnings to being granted the charter for Pennsylvania from King Charles II, founding the city of brotherly love (Philadelphia), partnering with the first nations in the New World, and starting what he believed would be a precedent to a peaceable kingdom.

Fast forward to the present, surrounded by Penn's name on institutions, highways, landmarks, and monuments; his presence is very much alive, but now it's time to bring Penn's ultimate destiny as the essence of his seed comes into full bloom. This is a "Now" message, for Penn's vision to reappear prominently onto the world stage. The filming will take place in three nations (United States, United Kingdom, and Ireland) and will harness aerial drone footage, 4K resolution, and immersive historical re-creations intertwined with expert interviews.

The seed of William Penn's "Holy Experiment" is absolutely in the hearts and in the hands of the filmmakers. God has revealed through prophetic dreams and visions the innovative aspects this film is to take. We are truly and passionately honored to be a part of bringing this message to life as a timely mandate for the current world scene and for the nations belonging to the generations to come. We have given ourselves to be on the cutting edge of God's creative word, to pierce the darkness and reveal the light and intent of God's design for His kingdom on Earth as it is in Heaven.

In a time when government corruption is at an all-time high, the story of William Penn has great significance. It was men like Penn and his vision for governing that have made America one of the greatest nations on the earth.

We are looking for partners that would like to help to get William Penn's story told on the big screen. As you can imagine the cost is great, but we know that the vision and the mission of William Penn is even greater!

“That My God would make it the Seed of a Nation, a holy experiment, an example to the nations, for the nations want a precedent, that we would do the thing that is wise and just.” William Penn
