

Vendor Scorecards

The ability to objectively evaluate every vendor on its sustainability performance can result in many benefits. Among them:

- New and improved business opportunities
- Increased operational efficiencies
- Improved brand reputation
- Increased revenue streams
- Reductions in energy use

Our consulting team assists customers with the design and distribution of vendor scorecards. Once established, these scorecards become an information-gathering tool to benchmark performance against expectations, communicate goals and standards and demonstrate a true sustainability commitment. Our assistance also extends to helping your organization manage and respond to vendor scorecards you receive from your customers, using them to identify strategic opportunities for partnerships and improvements.

As a member of The Sustainability Consortium, we are collaborating with industry, non-governmental organizations, regulatory bodies and academic institutions to develop a standardized framework for product sustainability. We have access to robust KPIs (Key Performance Indicators) to help evaluate the sustainability of your products and suppliers, enabling you to make sustainable choices and beneficial partnerships.

Scorecard Response

Managing multiple information requests can be time-consuming and confusing. Our consultants can assist in completing supplier sustainability scorecards you receive from your vendors or customers.

Product Redesign/Supply Chain Evaluation

Based on the findings of your supplier scorecards, we can help you determine appropriate follow-up actions. Possibilities range from modifications to your supply chain to redesigns that will improve the overall sustainability of your product(s). Whatever the appropriate response, we can work with you to implement the chosen course of action in a manner that lessens inputs, outputs and impacts. Choosing the right suppliers can increase the sustainability of your product line and overall business.
